

Academic integrity:

Academic integrity is expected of all students of Cornell University at all times, whether in the presence or absence of members of the faculty. Violations of the code of academic integrity will be prosecuted through the Academic Integrity Hearing Board. For more information, see the following page on academic integrity:

<https://cuinfo.cornell.edu/aic.cfm>. You should complete the web quiz and paper annotations on your own and should show up on time for, stay to the end of, and fully participate in the lab shadowing experiences.

Accommodations for students with disabilities:

In compliance with the Cornell University policy and equal access laws, I am available to discuss appropriate academic accommodations that may be required for student with disabilities. Requests for academic accommodations are to be made during the first three weeks of the semester, except for unusual circumstances, so arrangements can be made. Students are encouraged to register with Student Disability Services to verify their eligibility for appropriate accommodations.

Inclusivity Statement:

We understand that our members represent a rich variety of backgrounds and perspectives. The Learning Where You Live program is committed to providing an atmosphere for learning that respects diversity. While working together to build this community we ask all members to:

- share their unique experiences, values and beliefs
- be open to the views of others
- honor the uniqueness of their colleagues
- appreciate the opportunity that we have to learn from each other in this community
- value each other's opinions and communicate in a respectful manner
- keep confidential discussions that the community has of a personal (or professional) nature
- use this opportunity together to discuss ways in which we can create an inclusive environment in this course and across the Cornell community
